Supporting Siblings as They Grow:

Meeting the Needs of Brothers & Sisters of Children with Disabilities

The relationship between brothers and sisters plays a very important role in the lives of both individuals with developmental disabilities and their siblings.

In growing up with a brother or sister with a disability, the feelings and challenges experienced by siblings are often overlooked.

Supporting siblings may help to increase their understanding of their brother or sister's special needs, ease their stress and anxiety in situations that occur in day to day life, support their emotional needs, and build a strong, loving, relationship with their brother or sister.

Join us and The Arc of New Jersey Family Institute as we discuss the many joys and challenges of growing up as a sibling of someone with a developmental disability.
