Elections Matter!

When you vote, you choose who you want to represent the disability community at every level of government.

2018 is a big election year.

Many elections will happen at the federal, state, and local level.

Make sure you have the information you need to vote!

Are you registered to vote?

Make sure you are registered and that your registration is up-to-date.

Where do I go to vote?

Where can I get information about my state's election laws?

Check out state-bystate information for the deadline to register to vote, early voting, and options to vote by mail.

What should I do if I think my right to vote is being violated?

 $\begin{array}{c} \text{Call the Election Protection hotline at} \\ - & 1 - 866 - OUR - VOTE \\ \text{OR} \\ 1 - & 888 - VEY - VOTA \end{array}$

The Election Protection coalition makes sure that all voters can take part in the political process.

I have a guardian.

It depends on where you live. Self-Advocates becoming Empowered (SABE) has information about whether you can vote if you have a guardian. They also have a lot more information about voting as a person with a disability. The Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law also has a fact sheet on restoring voting rights.

How do I find information about specific elections?
